Health and Wellness Tip for the Fall Season

As fall is approaching, air gets cooler, leaves start shedding and the duration of daylight becomes noticeably shorter.

Now is the perfect time to fall into a healthy fitness and nutrition routine.

Cooler, crisp temperatures and colorful foliage scream outdoor workouts. Switch up your indoor gym routine and try a 30 minute walk in the morning or a jog after dinner and enjoy the beautiful hues of fall. Create and plan out a weekly workout schedule to keep consistent. Find an accountability partner to empower and encourage each other to stay on track.
