Dealing with setbacks during the Pandemic

Setbacks are a fact of life. Life doesn't always go according to our hopes and expectations, especially during a pandemic! We all experience setbacks, and even minor setbacks can have dramatic negative effects...if we allow them to.

There is hope, and it starts with our mindset and how we view these so-called setbacks. Here are 5 ways to bounce back from life's inevitable setbacks, especially the ones we are all currently experiencing.

1. Embrace who you are. You are awesome, and you have had many, many successes in life and there's more to come. Mistakes are okay, they're learning opportunities. Being afraid is fine. Being uncomfortable is a sign of growth.
2. Everything in life is temporary. Pain and uncertainty passes and time heals. Take time to reflect.
3. Find gratitude in the present moment. Practicing gratitude works. Take a deep breath and be grateful for everything that's led you to the present moment. Be grateful for setbacks, they can strengthen you.
4. Reach out and help others. Setbacks are usually self-centered. Find a way to help someone else; it's a sure way to feel better.
5. Move on. We all make mistakes, but successful people shake it off, rebound rapidly, and get back on track. Pull yourself out of the negative spiral, get support, and hop right back on the path to success by making the right decisions. Learn your lessons.
